

Einstein Mystique Effect II: A Life Blighted by Einstein

There is a willingness to lie for Einstein, to conform to the myth that Einstein was a genius when he wasn't (as dealt with in last article). The consequence of all these lies is that lives can be blighted. Someone who investigates Einstein and finds Einstein is not a genius finds a refusal by people (who have been fed on the lies of the myth) to believe the whistleblower.

Yang explained how Einstein has blighted his life; from being considered genius in his youth to his old age as being considered fool:

Yang: When I was a senior middle school student, I was pretty good at mathematics, physics and chemistry, I always get at least two full marks. I was the champion in the mathematic contest of all the senior high school students in my home town in October in 1978, I could have won the champion of physics and chemistry without the rule that students can only attend one test. At that time, I was called "genius" by my classmates.

My observations on this are that the majority of people are rubbish at math, so you only need to be moderately good at math and “they” think you are clever. For most people – math is beyond them.

Yang: I was admitted by the mathematical department of Northwest Normal University in China because of my excellent exam scores in September 1979. During the four-year collegial time I studied mathematic courses, get good exam scores and a bachelor’s degree; meanwhile, I self-study physic courses of collegial and graduate student, I was interested by the theory of relativity.

Now he is starting to meet his downfall, after being considered genius at math, he progresses through his schooling and now at higher level meets Einstein’s relativity; and he’s going to find that its mathematical nonsense.

Yang: After reading earnestly and seriously for a period of time, I thought the theory of relativity contains antinomy, it is not scientific and true, it is particularly what velocity of light is constant, the formula of mass-energy, length constringency, clock go slowly, time-space bend etc, is all false and deceptive.

Exactly its nonsense.

Yang: I had written a thesis the theory of relativity is a self-contradictory sophism talk, but classmates laugh at me and my teacher get angry.

Exactly, “they” don’t understand math, and when “they” found that you did understand math, “they” thought you a genius. But now you tell them that something they don’t understand is nonsense, but which they are told is true by propaganda, their poor little brains have no way of handling it, and reaction is they just have to laugh it off or get angry.

Yang: I invited my schoolmates to study and discuss the theory of relativity, I told them that the theory of relativity contains antinomy,

But unfortunately is beyond them to understand if they don't understand math

Yang: a schoolmate who was studying in the physical academy advises me that: "according to the textbooks the theory of relativity is right, you say the theory of relativity is wrong all day, you could not pass the test, and could not finish your course of study, could not take a diploma, then how can you go to work? What can you live on?"

Exactly the word of authority says its true and if you go against it you fail the word of authority's exams, and failing that you go down in the social scale. So there is social pressure to conform to the lies.

[snip]

Yang: I have exchanged my viewpoints with experts and professors from other universities for many times, sometimes they agree with my viewpoints, but sometimes they are speechless, silence, dare not support me openly, dare not go one step beyond the prescribed limit of the theory of relativity.

One dare not call it "conspiracy", because one gets mocked for that as well.

[snip]

Yang: Of course, seeing from the angle of personal utilitarianism, I'm suffered from Einstein's relativity. I am such a person, when I was in senior middle school, my classmates call me "talent[ed]", but now they call me "fool".

That's human behaviour in action- they follow like sheep what the voice of authority says. Go against the voice of authority and "they" (these sheep) victimise you.

It all reveals a deeply disturbing psychological aspect of human nature - a mistake was made in declaring Einstein a genius and now there is pressure to conform to those mistakes/lies - which we can call the Einstein Mystique Effect.
